SECRETS REVEALED! OF 'BEDKNOBS

(From top) Shopping Portobello Road; Invoking the power of the magic knob; Meeting the inhabitants of Naboombu; Preparing ghostly troops for combat.

Bedknobs and Broomsticks" is about an amateur sorceress and her mountebank mentor. Angela Lansbury and David Tomlinson head the cast. Between them they make enough magic to mystify a Merlin. As you watch this Academy Award winner (for special effects), you'll agree that it's fun to be fooled, but it's more fun to know. Here are some secrets revealed.

The picture is set in England during the summer of 1940 when children were being evacuated to the country from war-torn London. Pepperidge Eye is the lonely coastal village where three youngsters (Ian Waghill, Roy Snart, Cindy O'Callaghan) are reluctantly accepted by Miss Eglantine Price (Angela Lansbury). There their adventures begin as she searches for the missing half of a spell needed in her scheme to help England. Their journey includes stops at London's boisterous Portobello Road and the mystical lost Isle of Naboombu.

There was a Pepperidge Eye, but it was not in England. Complete to post office and great stone castle, it was built at the Disney Studio in Burbank, California. So was Miss Price's seaview cottage outside the town.

Fabulous Portobello Road, "street where the riches of ages are stowed," has been a bustling flea market for over a century. A three-block section as it appeared in 1940 was reproduced on a Disney sound stage. Two hundred actors jammed the set, which was filled with bric-a-brac and such oddments as a Sicilian sedan chair, Limoges china, and some gas masks from World War I. Barrows were acquired from A. Keehn, a British firm with a monopoly on them. For more than a hundred years, A. Keehn has collected a shilling a day for each barrow rented by vendors on Portobello Road.

The Isle of Naboombu, legend has it, is inhabited by people-hating animals. Their ruler is King Leonidas, a perpetually peevish lion. His subjects include a seagoing bear, a secretary bird, and a multitude of equally odd cartoon characters. Naboombu, like Pepperidge Eye, also existed—but only on the drawing boards of the Disney Studio's gifted animators. Animation director Ward Kimball and his team of artists and story writers devoted a year to creating the 22-minute cartoon sequence wherein Miss Price and party fly a brass bed to the fanciful island.

The ghostly medieval army Miss Price musters for climactic scenes in the film consists of authentic armor and weapons originally assembled in Spain for "El high among the Bavarian Alps filming "Something for Everyone" when she first read the script of "Bedknobs and Broomsticks."

"I thought well, my gosh, what a luxury to be able to make such a carefree, enchanting, fantasy movie," she recalled.

"I was immediately interested and fascinated because it would afford me a chance to both sing and dance on the screen, which I hadn't done in goodness knows how many years. So I jumped at it!

"The story reminded me of my teens," she added. "Like Miss Price, I was in England when World War II broke out. My mother gave me a choice of being evacuated from London to a boarding school in the country, or studying acting at home. I chose the latter without hesitation."

David Tomlinson plays Emelius Browne, humbug professor of magical arts and sciences. The script, with its wartime setting, reminded him of 1940 when, he said, "I was on the west coast of England learning to be an R.A.F. pilot.

"My acting career is built on light, comedic roles, so I'm sure it's difficult for my public to believe I was ever a fighter pilot. I'm pleased to say, however, that I never heard a shot fired in anger. I spent the war teaching people to fly. I was an elementary training instructor and a very good one, of course."

Most of the creative talent behind "Mary Poppins" was reassembled for "Bedknobs and Broomsticks." Leading the march were the Oscar-winning songwriters Richard M. and Robert B. Sherman, who composed eight numbers for this musical. They are, in order of presentation, "The Old Home Guard," "The Age of Not Believing," "Eglantine," "Don't Let Me Down," "Portobello Road," "Portobello Street Dance," "The Beautiful Briny" and "Substitutiary Locomotion." 🐾

Cid," then shipped to Hollywood for "Camelot."

Disney special effects experts rented the collection. After some hocus-pocus of their own they turned it into soldiers who, by "substitutiary locomotion," are brought to life and march against the enemy.

The genuine suits were too valuable to damage or destroy. So fiberglass replicas were made of some, to be riddled by bullets or blown apart. In battle array, brandishing weapons, and with flags and banners flying, the headless troops were as eerie a sight off screen as on.

Meet Louis Nye, King Of Creative Comedy

Laughter, ever in short supply, is the cream of "Steve Allen's Comedy Room" (see page 15). Steve brings the funniest men in the business to this exclusive Disney Channel series, and among his guests this month is the redoubtable Louis Nye.

Unlike most of us, Nye never gets lonesome. As a stand-up comedian and master dialectician, he is a crowded room all by himself. He can impersonate a German doctor, Philadelphia lawyer, Scottish merchant or Iroquois chief without missing a beat. Sometimes, just for the heck of it, he'll imitate a dog howling in the distance.

"I grew up around Cockney chauffeurs, Irish cooks, Italian gardeners and all the domestic workers who patronized my father's grocery store in Hartford, Connecticut," Nye says. "I had good ears and I picked up on that.

"When I was a kid my father used to take me to the produce market at four o'clock in the morning. I knew I'd have to find something in life that wouldn't kill me with hours like that, so I became an actor."

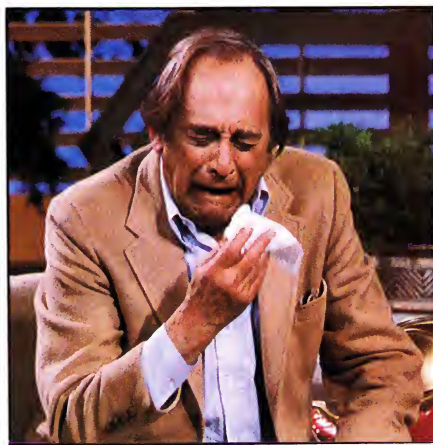

During his high school years, Nye had his own show on the local radio station. He went on the air as an elderly Viennese psychologist, dispensing advice and answering letters—many of which he wrote to himself—with a rich Teutonic accent. When listeners demanded a photo of the good doctor, Louis put himself in the hands of makeup artists from a nearby theatrical company. "They lined my face, gave me a wig and eyeglasses, and I looked great," Nye says.

After high school Nye went to New York, where he performed in radio and Broadway shows. "It was World War II time," he says, "and I specialized in playing Nazis with Germanic-English accents. 'Vell, Herr Schlosser, you vant to stay here? Then ve must ask you some questions.'" A few years later, with television looming ever larger on the horizon, Nye met Steve Allen who was visiting in New York. "Next thing I knew, he was inviting me to go on a network TV show he was starting in Hollywood." Nye debuted as Gordon Hathaway, a regular on the series whose opening line, "Hi-ho, Steverino," became a household phrase. The two have worked together many times since.

Nye logs 50,000 miles a year fulfilling engagements at colleges, conventions, clubs and special events such as the White House Photographers' Dinner honoring President Reagan.

"I just get up there without makeup, a hat or anything, and start improvising in front of a live audience," he says. "Creative comedy is like playing jazz. Instead of doing something you know, you improvise. I get my kicks that way. Sometimes I get kicked, too." 🍷

Louis Nye, an entertainer par excellence, never stops adding to his seemingly inexhaustible family of comic characters. "I'm a people watcher," he says. "I enjoy eavesdropping on their sounds, looks, gestures and mannerisms." Nye likes to imitate animals, too.

Christmas Down Under

Where do you think the Australian cast and crew of "Five Mile Creek" will find their Christmas presents this year?

The beach is a good guess. December is Australia's hottest month. Christmas down under is part of summer vacation, and Aussies who live near the coast celebrate by building sand castles instead of snowmen.

"Only the diehards still carry on with all the British Christmas traditions," says Doug Netter, Australia-based producer of our Disney Channel series. "It's hard to get into the spirit of flaming plum pudding when it's 115 degrees in the shade!"

This Christmas, the Five Milers will be headquartered outside of Melbourne. As Netter and two of the stars, Louise Caire Clark (Maggie Scott) and Liz Burch (Kate Wallace), explained in a recent visit to the States, this is where the third season of "Five Mile Creek" will be shot. The show was originally located near Sydney, nearly a thousand miles away.

When describing the new exterior sets created for the different location, Netter beams like St. Nick himself. "They're the biggest ever made for an Australian television series," he says. "It took two months to build them."

An entire town, named Emu Plains, has been erected. The emu is Australia's national bird, known for its inability to walk backwards. "The town is in the open prairies of Australia, so you'll be seeing a landscape strikingly different from the mountain terrain of our first location," Netter says.

You'll also be seeing a small stage coach station, named "Armstrong's." The Armstrong family, which owns most of the territory around Emu Plains, will become a continual source of problems for the Five Milers in the new season.

other character appearing later in the season. This newcomer will bring romance into Annie's life.

As they look ahead to the series' dramatic developments, both Louise and Liz are eager to begin the third season. Louise sums it up when she says, "As long as the producers do such a wonderful job — we'd be mad to want to do anything else!" 🐾

Our heroes will move into a new homestead, which they nostalgically name "Five Mile Creek." "This house is larger than the old one, and has a sloping iron roof and a great big beautiful porch," says Netter.

Louise Caire Clark thinks the move will be exciting for both the actors and viewers. "The location will add a completely different dimension to the show," she says. "In fact, the producers won't even tell us what all the surprises are going to be!"

But the cast has already learned about one major change: a new character, Annie, played by the 17-year-old Australian actress Nicole Kidman, is joining the Five Mile Creek "family."

"Annie's an orphan, a shepherd girl who's very green, totally uneducated," explains Liz Burch. "Maggie and Kate will be teaching her how to dress, talk, and behave. It'll be a Pygmalion relationship—a total makeover."

According to Netter, you can look forward to at least one

Here's A Holiday Preview

Robin Hood

Celebrate the New Year with this sneak preview of Disney Channel entertainment. We have all kinds of wonderful surprises coming your way, and here are just a few of them for your enjoyment in 1985.

In response to your many requests for more Disney animated classics, we are happy to bring you "Robin Hood" and "The Sword in the Stone." The first is a full-length animated version of the English legend; Robin Hood, his merry men, and all the other characters are animals. "The Sword in the Stone," also set in Old England, recounts the boyhood of the future King Arthur and his rollicking adventures with Merlin, the magician. Both comedies are liberally laced with music.

At least four new made-for-The Disney Channel movies are scheduled for the coming year. "The Undergrads" stars Art Carney as a 74-year-old grandfather who enrolls as a college freshman with his grandson, Chris Makepeace. "Lots of Luck" teams Annette Funicello, Martin Mull and Polly Holliday in a comedy about a million dollar lottery-winning hairdresser and her family. "Breakin' Through" headlines Ben Vereen as a Broadway choreographer who needs a missing ingredient to spice his forthcoming musical revue. He finds it in an amazing troupe of break dancers. "Black Arrow," premiering next month, is a romantic swashbuckler flashing with swordplay and deeds of derring-do. Stephan Chase has the title role, matching his skill as an outlaw bowman against the villainies of Oliver Reed and Donald Pleasence.

"Splash" and "Never Cry Wolf" are among recent film hits that are high on your want-to-see list. Both are headed for The Disney Channel next year. From the first laugh in "Splash," you'll be hooked on this comedy about a young New Yorker who falls in love with a mermaid. "Never Cry Wolf" tells the true story of a young biologist studying the habits of arctic wolves and finding wonder and delight in his discovery. It is based on the best-selling book by Farley Mowat.

For all of you who love "Welcome to Pooh Corner," we're preparing a new children's series entitled "Dumbo's Circus." You'll follow the humorous adventures and slapstick escapades of Dumbo, the little elephant with the big ears, and his company of clowns, mimes and center ring performers. This show introduces eight full-size, three-dimensional animal characters brought to life by state-of-the-art "puppetronics."

"Wilderness Bound" from Survival Anglia is a special Disney Channel nature series dealing with endangered wild creatures throughout the world. These engrossing programs are produced by Lord Aubrey Buxton of Norfolk, England, and have won every major award in the international television film industry. "Balloon Safari" opens the series next month.

Movies from the vast Disney Studio film library are ever popular, so next month we'll begin a year-long parade of selected favorites with Walt's first live-action feature, "Treasure Island." This tale of buccaneers and buried treasure is adapted from the book by Robert Louis Stevenson, who also wrote "Black Arrow."

Babes in Toyland

Annette, Ed Wynn, Ray Bolger, Tommy Sands

Here's a treat for all you youngsters and young-at-heart. With the holidays upon us, we present Walt Disney's classic version of the sparkling operetta, "Babes in Toyland," with three new musical numbers enhancing Victor Herbert's original score.

Imagine the happiness in Mother Goose village as Mary Contrary (Annette) and Tom Piper (Tommy Sands) celebrate their forthcoming wedding. But joy turns into gloom when the villainous Barnaby (Ray Bolger) kidnaps Tom.

Barnaby's henchmen (Henry Calvin, Gene Sheldon) sell Tom to a troupe of gypsies. The village children must make their way through the dread Forest of No Return all the way to Toyland in their effort to reunite the young lovers.

The BISHOP'S WIFE

Cary Grant, Loretta Young, David Niven

Christmas spirit takes on a new meaning when an angel named Dudley (Cary Grant) returns to earth.

Henry Broughan (David Niven), an absent-minded Episcopalian bishop, is overwhelmed by his struggle to raise funds for a new cathedral. He neglects his wife Julia (Loretta Young) and feels his faith slipping away.

When the bishop prays for divine guidance, God sends him Dudley. Using his heavenly powers of persuasion, this affable angel convinces Henry to care for people instead of cathedrals.

Cary Grant has charmed audiences since his first film in 1932. Presenting the debonair

MICKEY MOUSE RETURNS TO THE SCREEN!

MICKEY'S CHRISTMAS CAROL

Mickey as plucky Bob Cratchit faces a frugal Christmas

Back in 1974, Disney animators began thinking about making a movie starring Mickey Mouse. They were concerned that he'd been forgotten as a screen star. He hadn't appeared in a film since 1953, and many youngsters had never seen him perform. The animators' main question was: what story would give Mickey just the right role?

A Disney record album title inspired the answer: create an animated version of Charles Dickens' beloved tale. Headline Mickey as Bob Cratchit, Ebenezer Scrooge's mousey employee, and call it "Mickey's Christmas Carol." Nearly nine years passed between inspiration and completion of the featurette. You'll see it this month on The Disney Channel.

Mickey is surrounded by a cast that reads like a Walt Disney Productions' "Who's Who." Scrooge McDuck turns in the performance of a lifetime as (who else?) the crotchety old moneybags whose heart is turned from stone to gold by overnight visits from The Spirits of Christmases Past, Present and Future. Donald appears (slightly out of character) as Scrooge's calm, cheery nephew, while Marley's Ghost will never seem the same after Goofy's portrayal of him as a hopelessly entangled bumbler.

Jiminy Cricket, Minnie Mouse, Daisy, Clarabelle Cow, Horace Horsecollar, Ratty and Moley from "The Wind in the Willows," and Willie the Giant from "Mickey and the Beanstalk" play cameo roles.

The result is a show that's as bright as a bauble on a Christmas tree and as cheerful as a holiday song. Created by a team of young animators, most of whom weren't even born when Mickey retired, it's the perfect vehicle for his comeback performance.

SHARE THE
DESIGNERS

John Hench

How do you turn 180 acres of barren land into a world-famous entertainment park? Three of Disneyland's original designers give you the inside story.

"Walt would say, 'Hey guys, I need a jungle. Do it,'" recalls sketch artist Herb Ryman, whose work on the theme park dates back to the first concept drawings. To put a jungle into the California desert—and solve other unusual problems—Ryman, film designer John Hench, and landscape artist Bill Evans had to become "instant geniuses." On a tight budget and even tighter schedule, they built a turn-of-the-century Main Street, invented rides with flying elephants and whirling teacups, and literally moved mountains to make Disney's vision a reality.

Historical clips of Walt explaining his ideas and Ronald Reagan reporting on the Magic Kingdom's grand opening recreate the excitement of those early days.

And the excitement continues. Walt's pledge that "Disneyland will never be completed" is being fulfilled by young designers like Tony Baxter, who reveals some of the latest ideas for future Disneyland attractions.

THE SMALL ONE

(Animated Special)

Small One's long, floppy ears amuse his young master

Warm to this animated Christmas story of Small One, a flop-eared donkey whose devoted young master is a peasant boy from Nazareth.

When the boy's father decides Small One is too old to work and must be sold, the boy and his pet go to the market to find a new owner.

They meet moneylenders, merchants, soldiers, auctioneers and even a tanner, but not the one gentle person they seek. As they sit sadly in the twilight, a soft-spoken man approaches. He needs a mount for his wife to ride to Bethlehem. Somehow, parting is more sweet than sorrowful as Small One goes with his new master on a journey of joy.

Three songs, a fully orchestrated symphonic background, and a 12-voice choir enrich this appealing film based on a widely read tale by Charles Tazewell.

CHAPLIN FILMFEST FINALE A WOMAN OF PARIS

Edna Purviance, Adolphe Menjou

Chaplin & Purviance in "Sunnyside"

Our festival of Chaplin films comes to a close with this drama, in which Charlie plays a cameo role as a railroad station porter. Behind the camera, Chaplin served as writer, director and producer.

Edna Purviance, Charlie's leading lady in 34 of his movies, portrays Marie St. Clair, a French country girl who finds luxury but not love with a wealthy Parisian (Adolphe Menjou). Her destiny in the City of Light takes a shocking turn when her former suitor (Carl Miller) reenters her life.

In "Sunnyside," accompanying this feature, Charlie is a hotel handyman who creates chaos wherever he goes.

Still The Beaver

Barbara Billingsley,
Tony Dow, Ken Osmond and
Jerry Mathers as the Beaver, with Kipp Marcus,
John Snee, Kaleena Kiff, Janice Kent, Eric Osmond

It's Beaver time again! Beaver Cleaver (Jerry Mathers), star of the popular 1950s comedy series "Leave It to Beaver," is back in this brand-new half hour series, produced exclusively for The Disney Channel.

You'll see two new self-contained episodes each month as the now grown-up Beaver and his brother Wally (Tony Dow) raise their own mischievous offspring. Their mother June (Barbara Billingsley), and the rest of their family and friends are on hand to help out.

In "Supply and Demand," beginning December 5, Wally's daughter Kelly (Kaleena Kiff) falsely claims she owns one of the hard-to-find Mulberry Bush dolls coveted by her elementary school classmates. When challenged to bring the doll to school, she panics. Wally wants to help her out, but some character-testing problems intervene.

Beaver thinks his sons, pre-teen Oliver (John Snee) and junior high schooler Kip (Kipp Marcus), are too irre-

Rudolph's Shiny New Year

Animagic Special

Let Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer take you on a wondrous holiday adventure in this tuneful animated feature.

It's the week after Christmas and little Happy, the baby who will begin the new year, is

Rudolph leads Santa and reindeers on an urgent mission missing. Unless Happy shows up for New Year's Eve, Time itself will stop. Rudolph sets out to find the infant.

His journey takes him to bygone lands where he meets a prehistoric caveman, medieval English knight, American founding father and other storied characters. As the clock strikes midnight on New Year's Eve, Happy is still far from the anxious eyes of Father Time.

The Secret of the Pond

Moses Gunn, Anthony Zerbe, John McLiam, Eric Shea, Ike Eisenmann, Rex Corley

Swamp holds mystery and danger for Joey and his uncle

Leave the city behind and glide through the twisting waterways of a mysterious pond where a spoiled rich kid gains an unexpected education.

When 14-year-old Joey Moncrief (Eric Shea) visits his Uncle Ben (John McLiam) in the Virginia swamplands, the poor but proud locals resent his uppity ways. Joey slowly learns respect for both the swamp and its inhabitants. He also wins the friendship of two tattered backwoods youngsters, Claude and Odie White (Rex Corley, Ike Eisenmann), their hunting dog Charlie, and the secretive Sharbee (Moses Gunn), whispered to be an escaped convict.

But Sam (Anthony Zerbe), the White boys' explosive, drunken father, suspects Joey of spying on his illegal activities. He plots to silence the boy for good.

SNOWBALL EXPRESS

Dean Jones, Nancy Olson, Harry Morgan, Keenan Wynn, Kathleen Cody, Johnny Whitaker

Baxters rig an old donkey engine to haul skiers up slopes

This wild run of a ski comedy shows you there's no business like snow business for producing a blizzard of laughs!

When Johnny Baxter (Dean Jones) inherits a hotel in the Colorado Rockies, he bids good-bye to the New York rat race and heads west with his wife (Nancy Olson), teenage daughter (Kathleen Cody), and 12-year-old son (Johnny Whitaker).

The Baxters discover they need a loan to turn their run-down hotel into a ski resort.

But the local banker (Keenan Wynn) gives them a snow job instead of cold cash. In a last-ditch effort to raise the money, Johnny enters a no-holds-barred snowmobile race—even though he's a novice on the slopes!

Although temperatures dropped to minus 36 degrees during location shooting on this film, the undaunted cast used the weather to their advantage. One romantic outdoor scene between Dean Jones and Nancy Olson came off with great warmth—because the principals were huddling together for survival!

STEVE ALLEN'S COMEDY ROOM

Joe Baker, Dick Shawn, Jack Carter and Louis Nye stage a duel of wits with host Steve Allen as their referee

Make Steve's Comedy Room your laughing place as he swaps gags this month with Louis Nye, Jack Carter and Dick Shawn. British wag Joe Baker and the Terry Gibbs Sextet add to the fun.

Louis Nye and Steverino go back more than 30 years, when they teamed up on the first Tonight Show for NBC. From his inexhaustible supply of nostalgic video clips, Steve unspools a droll interview with Nye in character as Gordon Hathaway, "The Man on the Street."

Dick Shawn, author and star of "The Second Greatest Entertainer in the Whole Wide World," is a master of outrageous comedy. He demonstrates with a baseball sketch, in which he portrays "the pitcher of the future."

Jack Carter, whom Steve aptly describes as the Jack of all Tirades, kids his mother in a hilarious monologue. This leads everybody into a discussion of dialect humor, peppered with appropriate fractured English.

TWO AGAINST THE ARCTIC

Rossman Peetook, Susie Silook, Marty Smith

The breathtaking realism of this factual adventure film will have you shivering in sympathy with two Eskimo children stranded in the Alaskan wilderness.

Teenager Lolly (Susie Silook) and her younger brother Joseph (Marty Smith) accompany their father (Rossman Peetook) and other Eskimos on a hunt for the great walrus. The youngsters tend camp while the men put out to sea.

After several days, the hunters are still missing. The children realize they will not survive unless they can return to their village. Raging blizzards, hungry wolverines, polar bears, and the threat of starvation are adversaries in their desperate trek across hundreds of miles of open tundra.

FIVE NEW SHOWS THIS MONTH!

You and your family will want to share all five of these programs, chosen especially for the holidays. A different show airs each Sunday evening, then repeats during the week.

"Backstage Party" celebrates the completion of "Babes in Toyland," also on The Disney Channel this month (see page 8). Walt takes you behind the scenes to meet Annette Funicello, Ray Bolger, Ed Wynn and other stars who enliven the party with their impromptu antics.

"A Salute to Alaska" reviews the history and depicts the scenic attractions of our 49th state.

In "Cavalcade of Songs," Walt explains how his films are scored before introducing singer Peggy Lee and composer Sonny Burke.

"Holiday Time at Disneyland" transforms the Magic Kingdom into a yuletide wonderland. Tour the park with Tinker Bell, then join Walt as Christmas scenes from around the world come to life in a magical parade.

"Fantasy on Skis" is set in the Colorado Rockies, where a young skier's life depends on her faithful Saint Bernard.

ALMOST ANGELS

Peter Weck, Sean Scully,
Vincent Winter and
The Vienna Boys Choir

Vienna Choir boys perform works of classic composers

Boys will be boys, even if they're members of the respected, 500-year-old Vienna Boys Choir. This charming film captures the high jinks and high notes of these lads with the voices—if not always the behavior—of angels.

Vienna, city of dreams, romance and music, provides a spectacular backdrop for the story of Toni, an eager young singer beginning his rigorous apprenticeship with the choir.

Poor grades, his dad's disapproval, and the enmity of an older schoolmate are all obstacles Toni struggles to surmount in order to participate in an upcoming world tour.

The Vienna Boys Choir is featured throughout the film, performing the music of Schubert, Strauss, Beethoven and Brahms.

FIVE MILE CREEK

Louise Caire Clark, Rod Mullinar, Liz Burch,
Michael Caton, Priscilla Weems, Martin Lewis,
Gus Mercurio, with Jay Kerr as Con Madigan

New banker Sykes makes things tough for Kate and Con

As their problems reach a crisis, residents of Five Mile Creek rally for "The Last Roundup," a new adventure premiering December 5.

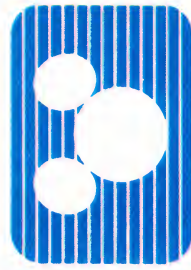

Banker Charlie Withers (Peter Carroll) retires, and the new bank manager threatens to foreclose on the loan to Jack (Rod Mullinar) and Con (Jay Kerr). This spells the end of their Australian Express stage coach, unless the men can pay off their debt.

Then Withers makes a proposal that would dramatically change the lives of the Five Milers. Torn by conflicting emotions, the "family" puts the matter to a vote.

"FROM ALL OF US TO ALL OF YOU..." A DISNEY CHANNEL CHRISTMAS

With season's greetings, we send this 90-minute animated Christmas card from all of us to all of you.

Jiminy Cricket is your master of ceremonies, presenting a holiday profusion of cartoons and sequences from Disney classics.

Among the cartoons are "Santa's Workshop" and "The Night Before Christmas."

Winter fun includes a sleighing and skating featurette told in song by Frances Langford, a snow fight between Donald Duck and his nephews, some ski artistry by Goofy, and an outing on ice starring Mickey Mouse, Donald Duck, Pluto and the Goof.

Mickey finds a surprise under "Pluto's Christmas Tree"

Tinker Bell appears with Jiminy as he closes the show singing "When You Wish Upon a Star."

December 1, 3, 6, 9, 11, 15, 17, 19, 21, 25, 29

This month's celebrity
co-hostesses:
Sally Struthers
Mary Crosby
Melanie Chartoff
Deborah Raffin
Patti Page

From EPCOT Center, Michael Young and his celebrity co-hostesses bring you stories on an encyclopedic list of topics.

This month, meet author Irving Wallace, check out a lending "toybrary," watch Chinese acrobats perform their 2,000-year-old art, visit the Disney archives, and tap your toes to the songs of a contemporary troubadour.

The Family of Tipsters add information about polishing silver, brewing tea, and more.

Different show daily.

Three Warriors

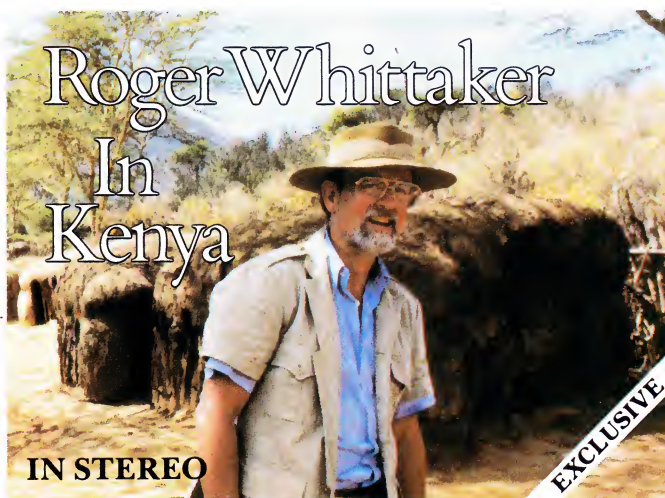

McKee "Kiko" Red Wing

Ashamed of being an Indian, young Michael (McKee "Kiko" Red Wing) is angry when his grandfather (Charles White Eagle) summons him to the reservation. Michael begins learning the ancient tribal customs, then must use that lore to outwit rustlers rounding up wild horses in the hills.

December 2, 5, 7, 11, 13, 16, 19, 23, 26, 29, 31

Roger Whittaker goes on musical safari in East Africa

For all you armchair travelers and lovers of faraway places who asked us to reprise Roger Whittaker's East African musical safari, here it is!

Join the balladeer in Kenya, where he was born. Then journey with him by land rover, aircraft and hot-air balloon to natural wonders like the great Rift Valley and Mt.

Kilimanjaro.

Whittaker seeks out tribal performers like the Nandi singers and Geriambi drummers, and the big game animals that range from Mt. Kenya to Lake Rudolf. Along the way he celebrates Kenya's glories in nine topical songs.

December 1, 4, 6, 10, 13, 16, 20, 25, 28

SMALL WONDERS

The Making of
"Mickey's Christmas Carol"
Greet the artists who put Mickey Mouse and a lot of his pals back to work after 30 years.

Burny Mattinson, producer-director of "Mickey's Christmas Carol" (see page 10), reveals how this animated special was created. We see behind-the-screen performers who talked for Mickey, Donald, Goofy, Willie the Giant and Scrooge McDuck.
December 1, 9, 15, 17, 19, 28

"Winter Ride"

Warren Miller narrates this sports film about snowmobiles, while taking you to resorts where they hold sway. After traveling from Minnesota to Wyoming and from Quebec to Colorado, you float through the Colorado Rockies in a hot-air balloon above some of the best snowmobile drivers in the world.

This fast-paced featurette follows "Snowball Express" (see page 14).

"Feliz Navidad"

Celebrate a traditional Mexican Christmas with Donald Duck, Joe Carioca and Pancho. These Three Caballeros whisk you south of the border for Las Posadas, a reverent and joyous holiday festival with treats for all.

This cartoon follows "The Bishop's Wife" (see page 8).

Precision skiers display their skills on snowy slopes

"Movement and Motion"

Schuss down the snowy slopes at Jasper National Park in the Canadian Rockies with Canada's 10 top ski instructors. Performing for producer Warren Miller's action cameras, they demonstrate basic techniques before presenting an exhibition of precision skiing.

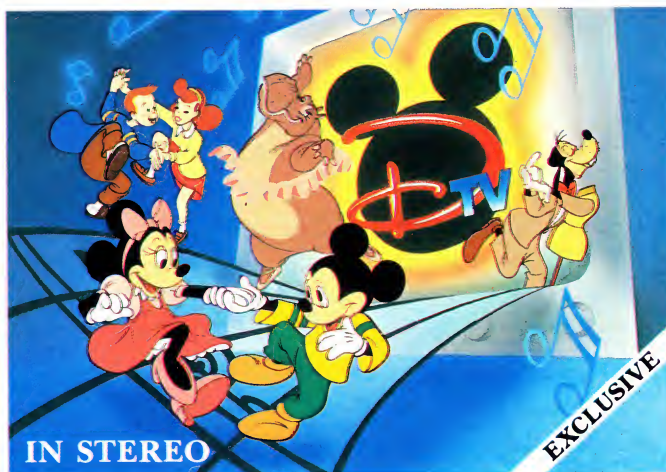

This daring and excitingly photographed outdoor film follows "I'll Climb the Highest Mountain" (see page 15).

"The Arctic Region and Its Polar Bears"

In the white wilderness of the Arctic, polar bears and walrus are mortal enemies. They meet after the annual thaw in this nature film, following "Two Against the Arctic" (see page 15).

Get your kicks with Mickey and the gang as they interpret songs by top recording artists. Among the numbers this month are Stevie Wonder's "I Was Made to Love Her," Marvin Gaye's "Can I Get a Witness?," The Supremes' "Stop in the Name of Love" and Gladys Knight and The Pips' "I Heard It Through the Grapevine."

Showing throughout the week. Check listings.

We're All Ears

Linda Palmer
Subscriber Services Director

Dear Friends,

Season's greetings!

This is the busiest time of year for most of us! If you're like me, you wonder how you'll get everything done!

At least one thing this month should be simple—planning your viewing on The Disney Channel. We've reorganized the Magazine so the entire program schedule is on four pages in the center (see pages 17-20). Now all the information you need is centrally located for one-stop TV shopping! The change has allowed us to add more feature articles, and some activities to the "Just for Kids" section too. We hope you like it.

I probably hold a record for watching the most Disney movies, and as a real "connoisseur," I want to call your attention to some special film treats this month. First there's "Bedknobs and Broomsticks," with its animated soccer sequence that's sure to give you a kick! "Snowball Express" is a marvelous comedy, and for real holiday fun, be sure to catch "Babes in Toyland." It's truly a Disney classic. I can hardly wait to view it with my 3-year-old daughter.

All of us at The Disney Channel wish you and yours a happy and relaxing holiday season.

Sincerely,

Linda

DIFFERENT VIEWS ON MUSIC SHOWS

It's wonderful to hear good music played and sung well. I wasn't old enough to hear the original "big bands," but today's young adults are learning to appreciate good music. Your music shows are all good quality—something missing from commercial TV.

L. S. Margerum
Walla Walla, WA

I believe you people are getting too musical. You've got "DTV," "Steve Allen's Music Room," and "Big Bands at Disneyland." That's enough. Disney is famous for cartoons and good movies. Please slow down on the music.

Robin Comeaux
Cutoff, LA

Thanks to The Disney Channel, Charlie Chaplin and "Big Bands at Disneyland," I've been able to answer some questions in the new "Trivial Pursuit" game. "What 1936 Chaplin film talks about the horrors of the machine age?" ("Modern Times"), and "What band uses the song 'Moonlight Serenade' for its theme?" (Glenn Miller Band).

Deanna Rosanbalm
Salem, OR

"Big Bands at Disneyland" brings back many memories. We'd like to hear more about the history of each band and its leader.

Mrs. Fred Flores, Jr.
San Antonio, TX

I enjoy your movies and programs. The best are "Dumbo" and "DTV," but I wish you'd put "DTV" on earlier and more often.

Jay Scrivano
Santa Barbara, CA

LOOKING FOR "WELCOME TO POOH CORNER" SONGS

We especially love "Welcome to Pooh Corner," and are curious if recordings of the songs on the show will ever be available.

Marie Nordgren
Greenville, SC

We're working on an album of songs from "Welcome to Pooh Corner." It should be available in the next few months. Watch the Magazine for details.

CHANNEL A CURE FOR HOMESICKNESS

Since I arrived in the USA two years ago from England with my husband (a USAF gentleman) and my two children, The Disney Channel has helped me overcome my homesickness. It takes me back to my childhood, and I enjoy every bit of it.

GIFTS OF THE HEART

It's the season for giving, and most of us spend a lot of time planning and selecting surprises for each other. Gifts don't have to be expensive or fancy to be perfect. In fact it's often something like the gift Sal receives from her grandmother in "The Olden Days Coat" on JIMINY CRICKET THEATRE (December 15, 16, 22 and 26) that means the most.

Here are a few inexpensive ways to say "I love you" to the special people in your life.

- 1) Write I.O.U.'s for special tasks or favors for people to turn in throughout the year. Mom might like a promise of breakfast in bed or having you do the cooking one night. Dad would go for a free car wash, yard work or his turn to choose the TV program. Promise sisters and brothers time to read aloud or play a game. Grandparents might appreciate having errands run, a picture or poem written just for them or time together.
- 2) Wrap up happy memories with keepsake gifts. How about a trinket or other item that once belonged to a family member or namesake of long ago? An old photograph nicely framed, a bit of polished rock or driftwood from a favorite vacation spot, or an object of yours that you've treasured all have great personal value.
- 3) Good at whittling, quilting, baking, repairing cars, model-building, kite-flying, or some other handicraft or skill? Promise lessons to an interested friend or relative. Of course, you might want to share the products of your abilities too.

Exploring the Archives

Dave Smith established the Walt Disney Archives in 1970. Its collections are as varied as the activities of Walt Disney Productions.

Was Walt Disney the first to combine animated cartoon characters with live actors and actresses?

—J.M., Martinez, Calif.

No, the combination of live action with animation began before Walt Disney got into the business, but he improved on the process. His first series was called the "Alice Comedies," in which a live actress cavorted with cartoon characters. Walt tried different processes later on with such films as "The Reluctant Dragon," "The Three Caballeros," "Song of the South" and "So Dear to My Heart." The technique was really perfected in the 1960s and 1970s with "Mary Poppins," "Bedknobs and Broomsticks" (see page 2) and "Pete's Dragon."

Dancers in "Bedknobs & Broomsticks"

What was Walt Disney's birth date?—T.J., Tyler, Texas

Walt was born on December 5, 1901. December was a notable month for the Disneys. All of Elias and Flora Disney's children, except Roy, were born in December, and both Walt and Roy died during that month.

Was there ever a Disney radio series?—R.T.B., Peabody, Mass.

Yes there was. It was called the "Mickey Mouse Theater of the Air," and it was heard on NBC in 1938. Walt Disney did the voice of Mickey Mouse.

DISNEY CHANNEL TRIVIA

...After "Babes in Toyland" (see page 8) opened in the theaters in 1961, the movie sets were put on display for a time in the Opera House at Disneyland.

Tommy Sands and Annette in Toyland

...Sean Scully, in "Almost Angels" (see page 16), also played the dual roles of "The Prince and the Pauper" for Disney. Vincent Winter of "Almost Angels" recently turned up, all grown up, as an assistant director on the Disney Studios' "Unidentified Flying Oddball." ..."Mickey's Christmas Carol" (see page 10) marked only the second big-screen appearance of Uncle Scrooge, who was primarily a character in the comic books created by Carl Barks. His previous film appearance was in 1967's "Scrooge McDuck and Money." ..."Who's Afraid of the Big Bad Wolf?" was probably the most famous song to come out of a short cartoon. Walt Disney recreated the writing of that song two decades later for "Cavalcade of Songs" (see page 16) on his TV show.

...A city ordinance banning snowmobiles on the main street of Crested Butte, Colorado had to be temporarily suspended in order to allow Disney locationers to film a snowmobile race sequence for "Snowball Express" (see page 14).

Get four ingredients for the secret spell and bring them to Miss Price. Here's how: Cut a small piece of different colored paper for each player to use as a game token. Place at START. Now cut paper squares and number them 1 to 4 to represent the ingredients you must find. Place the squares in the numbered stations on the board. Make one of each number for each person playing. Flip a penny to move. Heads move one space, tails move two. Do what the squares tell you. Pick up a numbered piece of paper from each station. After you have all four numbers, return to START. First one back wins.

'TIS THE SEASON TO BE JOLLY WITH AN OLD-FASHIONED

"Mickey's Christmas Carol" Party

Invite your pals to an old-fashioned celebration. Start the fun by going caroling around your neighborhood, or ask everyone to help trim your tree or decorate cookies. Then add these ideas for a really memorable good time!

ACTIVITIES & GAMES

1. Fill a glass jar with tiny Christmas tree balls or candies wrapped in red and green. As guests arrive, ask them to guess how many are in the jar. At the party's end, give the jar and contents to the person whose guess was closest.
2. Give your guests needles and thread to string cranberries and popcorn. Allow 5 minutes to work. When time's up the person with the longest chain wins a small prize. Tie all the chains together and loop it over your tree.
3. Let your guests decorate a styrofoam ball with bits of old jewelry, sequins, beads, lace, fabric or ribbon scraps. Let them take their ornaments home as party favors.
4. Watch "Mickey's Christmas Carol" while you have your refreshments. (The show airs December 1, 3, 6, 9, 11, 15, 17, 19, 21, 25 and 29.)

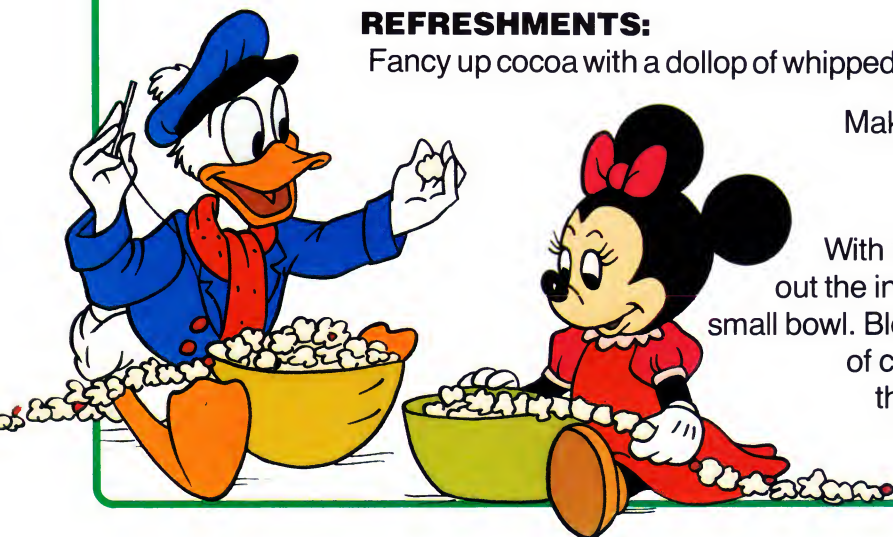

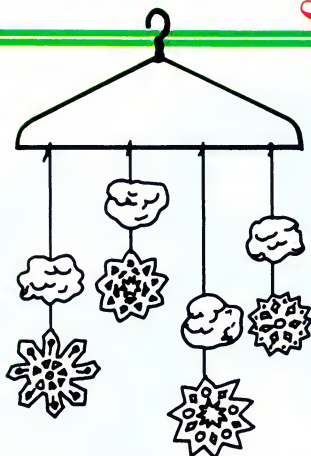

REFRESHMENTS:

Fancy up cocoa with a dollop of whipped cream and a peppermint stick in each cup.

Make sandwiches from meat, tuna, or cheese spreads. Cut into holiday shapes with cookie cutters.

With Mom's help, cut oranges in half and scoop out the insides, leaving the orange peel intact like a small bowl. Blend the orange pulp and juice. Add a dash of cranberry juice if you like. Freeze till slushy, then spoon back into the shells and replace in freezer until time to eat.

Make a No-Snow "Snowball Express" Snowflake Mobile

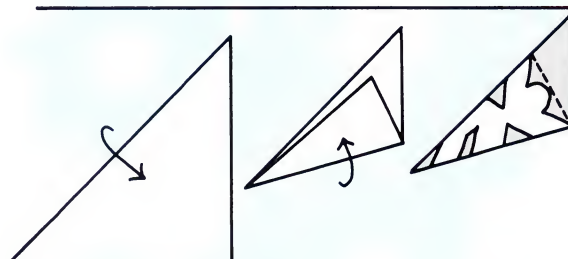

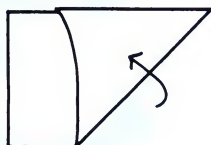

Watch "Snowball Express" December 2, 4, 8, 11, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 28 and 30

Even if you live where it doesn't snow, you can create your own touch of winter with this paper snowflake mobile. Ask Mom or Dad to help with the clipping and snipping. White typing paper works well, but you can also experiment with scraps of wrapping paper to give your mobile color.

Cut paper into squares of different sizes.

NOTE: To make a perfect square from a rectangle of paper, bring a bottom corner up until it touches the top edge. Crease the fold. Trim the excess strip of paper.

2

Open the paper and smooth. Fold in half from bottom to top. Fold the left edge to the right edge.

Fold the top left corner down to the right bottom corner. Fold the right bottom corner back to the left side as shown.

Now cut out the shaded areas. Unfold your first snowflake. Make more of various sizes and designs by cutting different patterns in the folded papers.

String a snowflake, then a cotton ball cloud at different intervals using a needle and knotted thread. Tie each thread to a wire coat hanger. Make some longer than others. Hang the mobile where it can catch a draft and flutter like real snowflakes descending.

You Can Be A Toy

You may not have a toymaking machine like Grumio in "Babes in Toyland" (December 9, 12, 15, 17, 20, 22, 25, 27 and 30), but you can still make this stuffed toy soldier as a gift. It's easy. Ask an adult to help you with the cutting and stitching parts.

Materials:

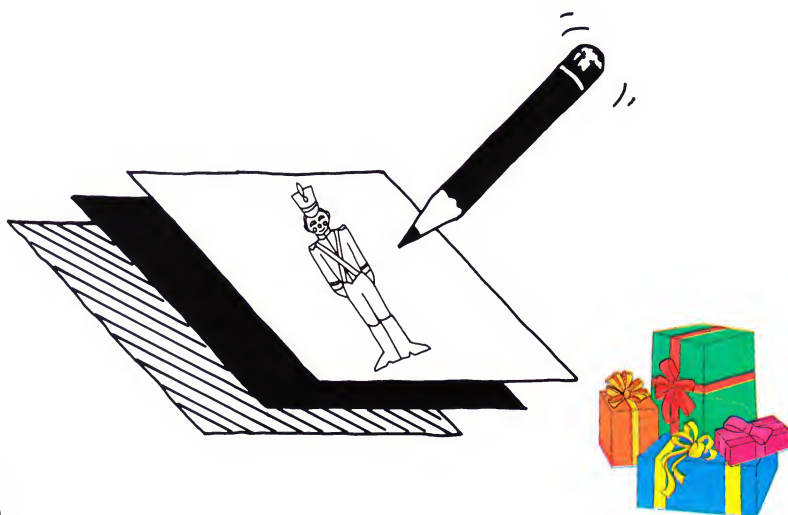

A square of muslin, white felt or a piece of an old sheet.

One piece of carbon paper and a pencil.

Needle and thread or white glue.

Waterproof felt tip pens (check to make sure they don't "bleed" when applied to fabric).

Stuffing (cotton balls, a bit of polyester batting or uncooked rice).

land Toymaker Too!

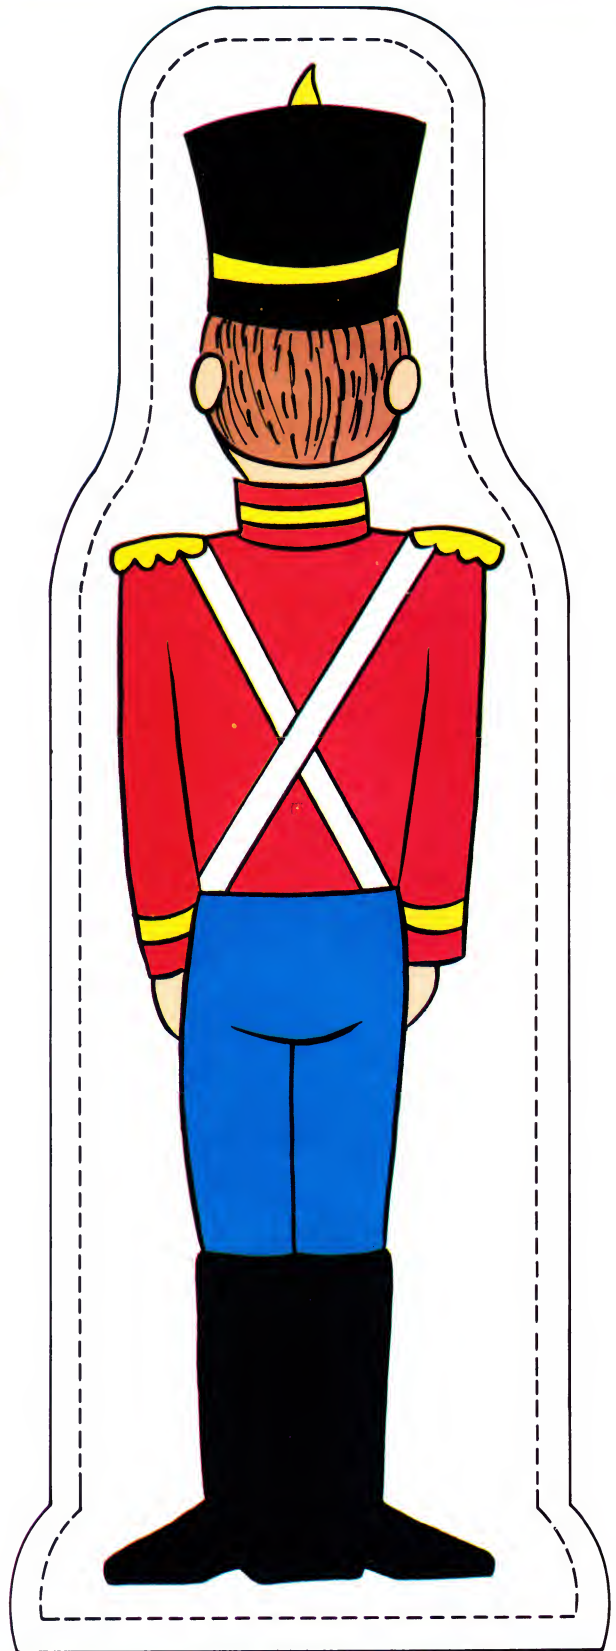

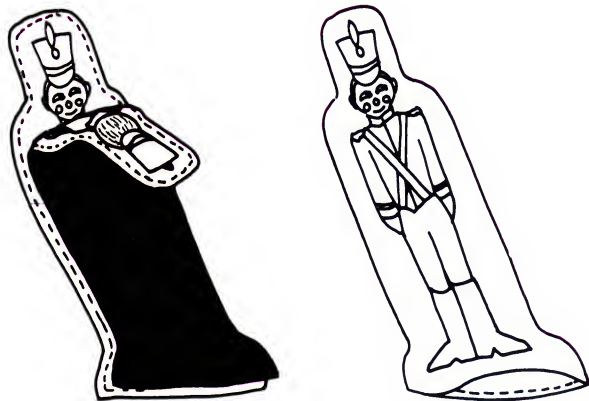

Directions:

1 Complete the activities on the other sides and carefully remove these pages. Place your fabric on a hard surface with the carbon paper (smudgy side DOWN) next, then the pattern. Press hard with your pencil and slowly trace all the lines on the pattern front and back.

2 Color the soldier outlined on the fabric, then cut him out. With colored sides facing, stitch or glue along the solid line. Leave a small opening. Turn right side out and stuff. Sew opening closed. You're done!

3 Make more soldiers by repeating these steps. If your pattern wears out, just trace a new one.

HAPPY GIVING!
